SIXTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME
TODAY'S FOCUS: ONLY GOD LASTS FOREVER

Jesus knows how tenuous life can be, especially when we put all our trust in the things of this life. Those things don't last. God does.

It is the middle of February, starvation season in many agrarian cultures, funeral season in many churches. This is a difficult time to hear of "woe". Yet Jeremiah and the psalmist tell us to plant ourselves securely, like trees by running water, the water of God. How can you plant yourself in the waters of God in your current life situation?

Jeremiah 17: 5-8

Psalm 40: 5a

1 Corinthians 15: 12, 16-20

Luke 6: 17, 20-26

Jesus, you moan over the sorrows in our world. We moan, too. There is a time for everything—a time to laugh and a time to weep, a time to live and a time to die. You know the vagaries of life. Help us not to grieve you.

In the middle of winter's barrenness, we rejoice that you have overcome the woes and the difficulties. You have given us your trust in that. Death and pain are not the final answer! Help us to trust in that. Come, Holy Comforter, and groan within us. Then bring us your peace.

CATHOLIC SAINTS OF THE DAY
FOR THE WEEK OF FEBRUARY 13, 2022

In Heaven, we will be in awe of the holiness of the countless men and women who served God and others with selflessness and self-sacrifice throughout their lives. Among the countless saints in Heaven are a few who are chosen by God to become canonized and added to the liturgical calendar of the Church on Earth. These men and women are given to us as models for every day and age so as to inspire us on our journey of faith.

Below is the General Roman Calendar with additional feasts particular to the United States. May these holy men and women inspire you as you daily seek to live the will of God in your own life. Saints of God, Pray for us!

4 PSALMS FOR WHEN YOU'RE SICK

For many of us, as we move into February, our thoughts turn to getting healthy by watching what we eat and hitting the gym. But the reality of winter presents us with some health challenges, as contagious illnesses like colds and the flu make their annual rounds. When we get sick in the winter months, darker days and colder weather can compound the misery of the experience.

Thankfully, the Bible offers a wealth of encouragement for such times. Although you may have read the psalms in the midst of other trials in the past, perhaps it's time for a fresh look at how they can serve as a source of hope and comfort for illness. Here are five psalms to turn to when you're sick.

PSALM 6: GOD HEARS US

Sometimes when you don't feel well, don't you want someone to commiserate with you? If you can't call upon loved ones to share the pain of your illness, try praying along with David, the author of Psalm 6. This biblical "man after God's own heart" knew well the burden of unrelenting affliction. In this totally relatable affliction. In this cry for mercy, he pleads with God, "O Lord, heal me, for my bones are in agony. My soul is in anguish. The psalm ends with the helpful reminder that "the Lord has heard my cry for mercy; the Lord accepts my prayer."

PSALM 38: YOU'RE NOT IN THIS ALONE

Though most psalms point to God's enduring faithfulness and eventual deliverance, they don't all end neatly tied up with a bow. But that doesn't mean they don't still bring comfort. I personally find enormous amount of encouragement in Psalm 38, where David offers up a litany of his sufferings. Reading this I see that David's illnesses are far worse than mine.

PSALM 35: FIGHT BACK AGAINST ILLNESS

In Psalm 35, David ask the Lord to "contend with those who contend with me"-meaning King Saul's army that pursued David as he fled through the desert. But in my own life, I like to use this psalm as a rallying cry against invading agents that assault my body during a sickness. This Psalm ends by declaring that God loves it when his children are healthy: "The Lord delights in the well-being of his servant."

PSALM 73: DON'T COMPARE AND DESPAIR

When I'm sick, it's all too easy to look at others who feel fine and get jealous or resentful. The writer of Psalm 73 apparently felt the same way. But by the end of the Psalm, he circles back to the truth of God's perpetual presence: "Yet I am always with you; you hold me by my right hand." He even finds peace in detaching from the comparison trap: "But as for me, it is good to be near God. I have made the Sovereign Lord my refuge."

The psalms not only offer encouragement for recovery from sickness, but remind us that suffer is part of the human condition. God's understanding of-and compassion for-sickness comes through loud and clear in these ancient poems. May you find comfort and healing as you read them during an illness.
