MISSION STATEMENT

To actively promote and live the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

In response to our Baptismal call, we are a People of God who witness to Christ in the world. We commit ourselves to remain faithful to the Magisterium of the Catholic Church and our call to the New Evangelization with the Blessed Virgin Mary, under the title of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, and St. Anthony of Padua as our patrons.

While primarily utilizing our rich Italian heritage, we integrate and embrace other cultural traditions as we minister to the community through prayer, catechesis, and stewardship by celebrating the Sacraments, proclaiming the Gospel, and performing the Spiritual and Corporal Works of Mercy with care and compassion for all.

Marriage Banns

Along the Way

One of the highlights of the past week was the Italian Festival Appreciation Dinner. This was an opportunity to say thank you to the Chairperson, Scott Schulick, the Board of Trustees, the volunteers, the sponsors, and the media for all they did to make the 23rd Annual Festival of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel a wonderful event. A delicious supper buffet was served for 180 persons. Words were shared about the celebration of our Catholic Faith, our love for Jesus and Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, for our Italian roots, families and community, and how the Festival reflects these realities. A poster check for $78,000.00 was presented to the Pastor - the highest net ever for the good of the Basilica. Thank you and thank God as we go along THE WAY. . .

American Eucharistic Witnesses: Saint of America, Saint of the Eucharist - St. Elizabeth Ann Seton (Part 1)

by Tom Hoopes

Born Elizabeth Bayley, she married William Seton in an Episcopal church and gave birth to five children. In 1803 Elizabeth accompanied her husband to Italy, seeking relief for his tuberculosis. William died later that year. It was during their time in Italy that Elizabeth discovered the Catholic faith through the witness of her husband’s business partners, the Filicchis. Soon after she returned to the United States, . . . she entered the Catholic Church in 1805, then moved to Baltimore, in 1808, where she took a leading role in founding a Catholic education system. In 1809 she became a professed religious and, with help of Archbishop John Carroll . . . founded the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph.

When she traveled to Italy with her husband during his illness, they stayed with . . . the Filicchis. . . She was fascinated by their faith in the Eucharist: they believed that Jesus really meant it when he said that the bread and wine offered at Mass are truly transformed into his Body, Blood, Soul, and Divinity. Elizabeth was moved deeply by seeing how the Italian people expressed their belief and devotion to the Eucharist. In one letter home she wrote, “My sister dear, how happy would we be if we believed what these dear souls believe, that they possess God in the Sacrament and that he remains in their churches and is carried to them when they are sick.”

Eucharistic processions passed by in the street where she was staying. “When they carry the Blessed Sacrament under my window,” she wrote, “I feel the full loneliness and sadness of my case. I cannot stop the tears at the thought, ‘My God, how happy would I be even so far away from all so dear, if I could find you in the church as they do.’” The knowledge that Jesus Christ was really there in the Catholic Church, waiting for her, dominated her thoughts even after she returned to New York. In her morning walks, she said, “I see nothing but the little bright cross on St. Peter’s steeple,” marking where the Blessed Sacrament resided in the nearby Catholic church.

She still attended Episcopal Sunday services, but she found herself turning to the Catholic Church—literally. “I got in a side pew which turned my face towards the Catholic church on the next street and found myself 20 times speaking to the Blessed Sacrament there instead of looking at the naked altar where I was or minding the routine of prayers,” she said.
